The Author

Preface

About the year 1926 the author became interested in the Dague history and genealogy as a hobby merely for her own pleasure, without any thought of putting the material in shape for others of the Dague family. As the work grew, it was necessary to organize it, if it was to be useful, even to the author.

In the preparation of this book, the author has used material taken from various court houses, historical societies, libraries, family traditions, tombstone records, War Department, Pension Bureau, and records kept by various members of the "Clan" as they migrated to different parts of the country.

The Genealogy was made up by different members of the Dague family sending in their ancestry as far back as they knew. These different branches of the Dague family were gradually pieced together. Sometimes conflicting statements were given that were hard to clear up. Sometimes both had to be given. As most of the reports sent in were written by hand, the author often found it difficult to determine the spelling of a name; the name, for example, might be interpreted either, "Lawyer" or "Sawyer." In such cases the author used the spelling she thought was the correct one.

The first account of the Dague family was written in 1927; but it was soon out of date, as new historical material was discovered. Later another was started, but the same thing happened. In the summer of 1937, the writer gathered her material together, and once more started anew; but before the work was completed the author received valuable information which was needed to explain some of the early family history.

The placing of this material with parts already finished was a difficult problem unless all the book was done over. For example, Mathias, son of Frederick, born 1736, was thought to have been the eldest boy, and is so placed in this book. Later, records showed that Michael, and not Mathias was the oldest son of Frederick.

The author wishes to acknowledge the assistance of: Elmer Dague, Lena Cowgill, S. N. Dague, Charles I. Dague, Alberta Dague, John B. Dague, Stewart Dague, Isaac Dague, Leslie B. Speakman, Grace Dague Shield, T. E. Steiner, Caroline Weimer, C. B. Dague, Cora B. Thomas, C. R. Swickard, Chas. E. Leyda, and all others who have assisted in any way with this work.

It has been a great pleasure to the writer to gather the material and to prepare and organize this account of the Dague family.

"The History and Genealogy of the Dague Family" is dedicated to all members of the Dague "Clan."

THE HISTORY AND GENEALOGY OF THE DAGUE FAMILY

The Dague Name and Its Variations

The origin of the name Dague is very uncertain. Some students say the name is Irish; others, German and still others, French. Webster's International Dictionary, lower section, gives the name, Dague, as a variation of Dag. "Dagg a variation of Dag. Dag a noun French (Dague, horn of a young deer, dagger). The Unbranched antler of a young deer. Dag, a verb (Confer with the French Dague, dagger, dagger, to stab). To pierce or stab as with a dagger. This meaning of the verb is now obsolete."

Samuel N. Dague thinks the name is of German origin. A number of early settlers of this country spelled their surnames Tage. Since Tage is plural for day in the German language, Dr. Dague thinks the name became Day and then Dague.

Mr. C. R. Swickard of Columbus, Ohio, says, "The Dague signatures of those who landed in Philadelphia are clearly Dague (Deg); Tague, Teague, Tage, etc.. are corruptions."

Dr. Wm. J. Hinke of Auburn Theological Seminary, gives information concerning the Dague name, which he takes from, what he regards as the best book on the etymologies of German family names, viz., Heintze-Cascorbi, Die deutschen Familiennamen, Halle 1925, 6th ed. In the book on 1. c. page 152, he found that the name Deg stands under Dagas, where it is given as an abbreviation that appears as Dage, Tage, Deg, Deck, Tegge, Dey. It goes back to the Old High German word tag, or tac, which is day. It occurs in personal names as its first element, as Dagram, Dagwald, Dagobert, Dagomar, Dagwin, etc., in which the first element means probably splendor, glory or something similar. Dagobert would be bright as day, Dagomar famous as day or famous through splendor, glory or something similar. As these words go back to about 400-600 A. D., we can only guess at their meaning. It is not known whether the various Deg, Deeg, Teck, or Teg are identical or not.

The Tague or Teague name, by which many of the earlier Dagues were called, has been traced back to Ireland, O'Hart has written a book, in which he takes up the Irish history and pedigrees of the Irish people. Here the name Tague figures quite prominently. Rev. Patrick Woulfe has also written a book called "Irish Names and Surnames." In both these books the origin of the Tague family is traced back through early European history eventually becoming one of the principal old Irish families.

The territory of the O'Teghe (Tague) is situated in the south eastern part of Ireland near the landing place of Palladius close by Wicklow.

The Media Research Bureau, Washington, D. C., gives an interesting account of the Teague family in a paper called "The Name and Family of Teague." After giving several debatable origins of the name, this Bureau states that the most probable origin of the name seems to be, that it was a variation of the Irish proper name, Teige, which was and is exceedingly popular in Ireland, and is pronounced the same as Teague. This theory is further carried out by the fact that many of the emigrants of the name to America are known to have been of Irish descent.

In this country in earlier days the name, Dague, has been spelled in various ways. Some of the most common spellings are as follows: Tech, Deg, Deeg, Dage, Tage, Tague, Teague, Teg, Taig, Fage, Fague, Daig, Deague, Daque, Dege, Degh, Degen, Degion and Dake. All these names have been found in the same relationship, on wills, deeds, tax receipts and various other papers.

Why all this confusion of names as to Tague and Dague particularly? It seems that the Tagues came to America earlier than the Dagues and settled in all the colonies and later every state in the Union. Several settled in Pennsylvania and perhaps Washington County. The Dagues, when they arrived at Philadelphia, on the various ships signed their names in German, Deeg, Deg, and Frederick who came in 1753 has his name written on his tomb stone, Deg.

Deg in German is pronounced like Dage in English. The English people confused the name with others perhaps Tague. In pronunciation the "D" often was mistaken for "T". In writing the "D" was confused with "T" and "F", as is shown in Frederick's survey for his land (see Deeds) which was called Dage, Fage, or Tage's Grove. Names were spelled as they sounded and no one was particular whether they were spelled correctly or not. Out of this confusion of names "Dague" became the standard name eventually, used by the descendants of Frederick Dague, born 1736; died 1796.

OF THE DAGUE FAMILY

Records in the War Department.

The Records in the War Department show that Joseph Deg, George Fague, Thomas Tage, Bain Teague, Benni Teague, Daniel Teague, John Teague, Jesse Teague, and Nathaniel Teague served in the Revolutionary War in different organizations from various colonies.

Four of these men's records follow:

"The records of this office (The War Department) show that one Thomas Tage served in the Revolutionary War as a private in Captain Charles Pope's Company, 1st Delaware Battalion of Continental Troops, commanded by Col. John Haslet, also designated Haslet's Delaware Regiment. Thomas's name appears on a muster roll of that organization dated in quarters at Lewiston, April 11, 1776, which shows that he enlisted January 17, 1776. No further record relative to him or to his service has been found."

"The records further show that Daniel Teague, served in the Revolutionary War as a private in Capt. William Reed's Company 23rd Regiment Continental Troops. Neither the date of his entry into service nor the date of his separation therefrom is shown by the records on file in this office, but the records show that he was paid for the months of September, October, November and December, 1776. This organization was raised in the state of Massachusetts and was organized in compliance with a resolution of Congress of November 4, 1775 which provided that the men be enlisted in the Continental service to Continental service to continue to December 31, 1776."

"The records also show that one Joseph Deg rank not stated served in the Revolutionary War in Capt. Lawrence Olivie's Company, Col. Moses Hazen's Regiment, Continental Troops. His name appears on the company pay roll, which does not show the period of service, but shows that he entered the service February 24th, year not stated, but was in service 113 days. Captain Olivie entered the service in February 1775 and appears to have served to the close of the war. The records do not show to what colony the said Joseph Deg belonged, but the records show that Captain Olivie was from Canada."

"Another War Department record shows that one Joan Teague served in the war as a private in the 2nd South Carolina Regiment. The date of his entry into the service is not shown, but the records show that he was paid from the first of July to the last of November, 1779. Another record shows that John served as a private in the first company of South Carolina Continental Troops, commanded by Capt. Felix Warley. He enlisted March 5, 1778 for the war, and his name last appears on a company muster roll dated May 14, 1783."

THE HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

Pennsylvania Revolutionary War Records. Lancaster County

A militia Draught made in the North West end of Leacock Twp.,—date uncertain about 1777. In 6th class—Capt. John Rowland's Company, And'w Tauge.

Ref. Penna. Archives—5th Series, Vol. VII, P. 645.

"Ages for service 18 to 53.

Andrew (Andreas) in service in 1777." (Andreas could hardly have been the father of Frederick, b. 1736 as he would have been beyond the age limit. Perhaps he was a brother.)

"Other names showing for service outside of Lancaster County.

These names are found in other Pennsylvania records.

Michael Tague, 5th Series. Vol. VI-P. 117. (Moved to Wash. Cp.)

Mathews Tague, 5th Series. Vol. IV-P. 730.

Matthias Teague, 5th Series. Vol. IV-P. 423" (Moved to Wash. Cp.)

"Other names in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania.

Henry Tague, 5th Series. Vol. VII-P.83.

Henry Taig, 5th Series. Vol. VII-P.68,82. Probably son of Andreas."

Miss Lottie Bausman, genealogist, speaks of rather a strange situation that follows:

"Leacock and Earl Townships adjoin. The 1777 company of Capt. John Roland appears to be the same company in 1783 with a different captain. Not unusual; a change in captains often happened. A company was made up of men from each township. In 1777 And. Tauge in 6th class.

In 1783 7th class of same company, Capt. Huey—

Henry Tague (Taig)

No Andrew in 6th class

(Henry on no other list—but in same locality)".

Evidence seems to point that Henry Taig was a son of Andrew (Andrias) as pointed out in the section "The First Known Ancestors", (See page 28.)

Adam Dague, Andrew Dague, Peter Dague, and Mary Magdalena Dague who lived in Lancaster County were probably descendants of Andreas. Peter Deague d. 1823, Adam Dague d. 1830 and Mary Magdalene Deeg died 1843.

Adam Dague, and Andrew Dague's names are found in connection with the Deeds Office of Lancaster County. Adam, Peter and Mary's name are found in connection with the Will Books and Interstate Records of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, 1729-1850.

OF THE DAGUE FAMILY

Records in the Pennsylvania Archives.

In the preceding accounts of the War Department there is no evidence that any of these Tagues or Teagues are related to the Dague family, but in later records many of those whose names are recorded as Tague, Teague, etc., are really Dagues. Such persons' names will be in black face type.

Some of the records found in the Pennsylvania Archives at Harrisburg are as follows:

"Henry Tague and Mathias Tague pr. were in the Washington County Militia, and were on the Depreciation Pay list." 5th series, Vol. 4. P. 423.

"Michael Tague, pr. Washington County Militia; received depreciation pay". 5th series, Vol. 4, p. 423.

"Michael Tague, pr. 8th class. Capt. Daniel Clapsadler's Co., Cumberland County Militia." 5th series, Vol. 6, p. 117.

"Joseph Teague and Roger Teague. Col. Benj. Flower's Artillary Artificers." 5th series, Vol. 3, p. 1121.

"John, Roger and Patrick Tague were each granted land warrants of 400 acres in Northumberland County, March 15, 1794." 3rd series, Vol. 25, p. 332. Also found in the Ohio State Library.

"Daniel Teague and wife granted land. Warrant for 93,157 Acres in the county of Huntington. Surveyed May 26, 1837". 3rd series, Vol. 25, p. 773.

"Frederick Tague paid tax on 400 acres, 3 horses, 3 cattle, and 6 sheep, valued at 113 shillings in the County of Washington, 1781. Michael and Mathias Tague also paid tax on horses and cattle, but no land, in the same county, Bethlehem township, 1781". 3rd series, Vol. 22, p. 711.

Frederick Feagh, pr. Captain Page's Company, Lancaster County Militia, Mustered September, 1776". 5th series, Vol. 7, p. 635.

H. H. Shenk—Archivist—Pennsylvania State Library and Museum, Harrisburg, states the following: "I hereby certify that the name of Frederick Tague (Dague) appears as private Eighth class, on a roll of Captain George Miar's (Myars) company of Washington County Militia, November 2, 1781, in the War of the Revolution.

"The name of Frederick Tague (Dague) also appears as private, on a return of the Sixth, Seventh and Eighth classes of Captain Miar's (Myar's) Company of Washington County Militia, May 17, 1782 in the War of the Revolution."

See pages 168 and 184 of Volume II, Pennsylvania Archives, Sixth Series.

Mr. H. H. Shenk, Archivist, also sent the following names as having served in the War of the Revolution from Pennsylvania:

Henry Tague, Lancaster County, Militia.

THE HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

Mathews Tague (May or may not be Mathias Tague.) Washington County Depreciation list.

Patrick Tague, 2nd Pennsylvania Regiment, Continental line 1778.

Mr. Sherk further states that Jonathon Tague received a warrant of fifteen acres of land in Huntingdon County in 1839, and Daniel Teague and wife received warrants in 1787 and 1789. Roger Teague was taxed in the city of Philadelphia in 1780, 1781 and 1782, and Roger Teague was taxed in the County of Philadelphia in 1779 and 1780, and in the city of Philadelphia, 1781.

Records in "Williams' Brothers History of Franklin and Pickaway Counties."

From "Williams' Brothers History of Franklin and Pickaway Counties" pages 411 and 413 in Plain Township, Ohio, the following records are taken:

"Mathias Dague, and his son by the same name, Daniel and Geo. Dague, emigrated from Pennsylvania, previous to 1810, for in that year the last named was married to Mary Baughman; they being the first couple married in the township.

"The elder Dague settled in the Southwestern part of the township, and Mathias, Jr., settled where Job Wilson now (1881) lives. Daniel settled in Rocky Fork. George Dague died in 1871, his wife 1877. A duplicate tax receipt has him Mathias Tague.

"Henry Huffman and wife, Susan Dague (probably daughter of Mathias, Sr.) settled near north line of township in 1807 or 1808. They came from Washington County, Pennsylvania.

"Daniel Dague (don't know who he is unless he was a descendant of Andreas who came to this country in 1753.) came into the township near the north line, section two, about 1814. He was from Berkshire or Lancaster County, Pennsylvania."

A record in the Cleveland Historical Library says that Peter Dauge of N. Carolina b. ?; d. ? major in 2nd regular in Pasquotauk Company Apr 27-1776. Provincial Army Colonel.

Census Records

Several persons named Teagues, and Dakes, and one Deig appear in the U. S. Census 1790, and one named Dague in U. S. Census of living pensioners in 1840.

Joseph Teague, head of a family in Bristol township, Philadelphia County, with two sons over sixteen years of age, one under that age, a wife and four daughters. This statement is found on p. 194 of the Census of 1790.

Roger Teague, head of a family in Philadelphia County, with one son over sixteen years of age, a wife and one daughter. U. S. Census, page 201.

OF THE DAGUE FAMILY

Frederick Dake, Deeg is the father of Mathias Dague, Deeg, Dake and Michael Dake. Black face type names are found in the genealogy.

Henry Deig is probably the son of Andreas Deeg who came to this country in 1753 with Frederick, born 1736.

P. S.—A Jacob Dage was found enrolled in the 1790 census from Maryland. (Given by Mrs. Nellie Spring of Wausson, Ohio.)

Records from the "Old Northwest Genealogy Quarterly"

In Vol. 7, page 19, "First Settlement of Plain township" is given the following: Mathias Dague and wife with sons Mathias, Daniel and George, came in 1807. These were also mentioned in "Williams' Brothers History of Franklin and Pickaway Counties". Pages 411 and 413.

A record from the Ohio State Library shows that Mathias's wife was Elizabeth, and gives the same data as the "History of Franklin and Pickaway Counties". In addition the Library gives the dates of Mathias's and Elizabeth's deaths. Mathias, Sr., died February 16, 1847, in his 86th year, a Revolutionary soldier. Elizabeth, his wife, died September 7, 1821 in her 64th year.

"Old Northwest Genealogical Quarterly" further states that John Dague and Mrs. Jemima Strate were married April 30, 1812 (?) by Jacob Thorp. Vol. I, page 121. (So far it is not known who these people are or where they belong in the genealogy.)

"Married April 11, 1822, Andrew Swickard and Sally Dague." She is probably the daughter of Michael Dague, who is a son of Frederick, b. 1736.) Part not in parenthesis is taken from same; Vol. 2, page 86.

THE HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

"Dague, George, pr., Jefferson Tp., Battalion Muster roll of Capt. Ezra Griswold's Company, May 27, 1808." From same Vol. 6, page 153.

"Some two miles north towards New Albany is the cemetery of one of the Dague families, containing nineteen marked graves, viz.:

Mathias Dague, died February 16, 1847, in his 86th year.

Elizabeth Dague, wife of Mathias Dague, died September 7, 1821, in her 64th year.

Daniel Dague, born 1800, Pennsylvania, died November 13, 1850, aged 50.

Susanna Dague, born 1800, wife of Daniel Dague, died October 8, 1879, aged 79 years, 1 month.

Benjamin, son of Daniel Dague and Susanna Dague, died May 17, 1868, aged 25 years.

Susanna, wife of John Dague, died March 20, 1855, aged 22 years, 4 months. (Not sure who she is.)

Others buried in this cemetery are named Rogers. From same Vol. 7, page 22." (See complete list of people buried in this cemetery on page 45.

"Mathias Dague, Jefferson township, appointed commissioner of Franklin County, 1802". From same, Vol. 11, page 79.

As the Baughmans, Swickards, Huffmans and Dagues were closely connected in settling up parts of Ohio, the following account seems to be in keeping with the purpose of this book.

The first settlement of Plain township, No. 2. Range 16, U. S. Military Lands. Taken from "Old Northwest Genealogy Quarterly". Vol. VII, No. 1, January, 1904, by Mr. C. R. Swickard, Columbus, Ohio.

"At the beginning of the nineteenth century, many sections of the states of Massachusetts and Connecticut were very densely populated. The people had been continuously going to others of the New England states, and to New York and Pennsylvania. A few had ventured west of the Allegheny Mountains, even beyond the Ohio River. The reports, which those who went into the Great Wilderness beyond the Ohio River, made were so favorable as to richness and depth of soil, and the great possibilities of the future in the breadth of territory there, that soon after the beginning of the nineteenth century, many people started on the long journey with wagons, drawn by oxen, and even cows were used as teams as they supplied a threefold purpose, draught, milk supply, and the foundation for herds of beef and dairy cattle.

"As these pioneers passed through the states toward the west, the people there became imbued with the spirit of adventure and many of them accompanied those home seekers to Ohio on horseback or on foot, and they upon returning, made such good reports about the New Country that many of their people began to make preparations to remove to Ohio.

"The first authentic account of transitions in lands within the bounds of what is now Plain township in the county of Franklin, is the record of a patent of 4000 acres of land in Section 3, township 2, Range 16, United States Military lands, from the United States, signed by John Adams, President, to Dudley Woodbridge, dated in 1800. This was the southwest quarter of the township.

"In April, 1802, Dudley Woodbridge sold the land to John Huffman of Washington County, Pennsylvania, for the consideration of $4,000 taking in payment 4000 gallons of whiskey, one gallon for each acre of land; the whiskey to be delivered at Marietta, Ohio, soon after and perhaps during the year 1803, but more likely in 1804, surely as early as 1805.

"From old book of accounts, as per note, it is very plain to see that names mentioned were of men who were actual settlers, Edward Phelps and family, and Issac Griswold and family passed through the wilderness along an Indian pathway through what is now Plain township, on August 22, 1806, on their journey from Windsor, Connecticut to their final place of settlement along Alum Creek, in what is now Blendon township, west of Plain. These settlers have said that there was but one cabin along the trail between the settlement at Granville and the settlement at Worthington, and that was the Adam Baughman cabin.

"These pioneer settlers brought with them such supplies as they most needed, and traded what they brought for other supplies of food needed which had been raised here. There is no positive evidence so far as discovered that there was any settlement in what is now Plain township prior to 1803.

"Adam Baughman and his wife Priscilla (Huffman), came from Washington County, Pennsylvania, in 1803, according to 'Williams Brothers' History of Franklin and Pickaway Counties, the records for which were gathered from the old citizens prior to 1880.

"The Baughmans then had two children: Eva died while young, and a babe died also. Nine were born to them in Ohio. Those two determined young people started from the homes of their parents, accompanied by Henry Huffman and his wife, Susanna Dague (she was daughter of Mathias. See genealogy), (Henry was a brother to John), all on horseback, carrying their only living child, Eva, and their outfit for housebuilding and fitting, over mountains, across rivers, and through forests to the Ohio River, crossing the river in a ferry boat. They followed along rude roads and Indian's pathways, guided by plats of land and streams and surveys, finally stopping and locating near to a high hill, supposing it to be land owned by Mrs. Baughman's father, John Huffman, but they soon discovered they were too far north, and what is now known as Ray's Hill, in Jefferson township, was not on their lands. They removed to a point farther north and built their log cabin about two miles west of south from where the town of New Albany was afterward located, and 1-4 mile south from where the road leading from Columbus to New Albany and the road leading from Reynoldsburg to Worthington Cross, a distance south from the church. The cabin was 200 feet north from where the frame house stands, the residence of Allen Reed Baughman, a grandson, and on the east side of the road.

"The old deer lick where Adam Baughman and other noted marksmen of those early days shot so many deer, was located one fourth mile north of the bridge over Rocky Fork Creek.

THE HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

"The grandsons, sons of Reuben, Allen R., Amos, and Noah M., relate that they remember of hearing their grandmother relate about the journey from Pennsylvania to Ohio, and of the building of the first log cabin in 1803, in the dense wilderness. The Baughmans were among the leading citizens of the later pioneer settlers. The Gospel of Christ was preached in their cabin as early as 1808, by the Reverend John Williams. They assisted in establishing schools, and in every possible manner added improvements.

"Mr. Baughman died March 26, 1853, in his 75th year. Mrs. Baughman died September 16, 1865, aged 81 years, 9 months, 28 days. Their bodies with those of their daughters, Eva, Infant Louise, and son, Abram, and grandson, Russell, are buried on the old farm about sixty rods southwest from where their cabin stood and between the two roads. The graves are marked with plain stone slabs with names and dates plain and legible.

"Elizabeth Baughman, b. Sept. 6, 1804, their daughter, the first white child born in Plain township, married John, son of Daniel Swickard, November 12, 1827, by J. P. Allison."

(Daniel Swickard, b. 1764; d. 1849, married Mary Tague, daughter of Frederick Dague, b. 1736; d. 1796.)

See the Swickard, Baughman and Dague connections under IV, Mary M. Dague's descendants, page 156, part II.

"George Baughman and his wife, Barbara, their oldest son, Samuel and his wife, Elizabeth Huffman, came from Washington County, Pennsylvania in 1807. The other Baughman children who came at the same time were, Elizabeth Baughman, Susan, Mary (Polly) Baughman who married George Dague (see under Mathias Dague's descendants I.A.), Henry, David, Jessie and Sarah who married Jonathon Swickard, whose mother was Mary (Dague) Swickard, who was the daughter of Frederick, born 1736.

"These families were located along the southern boundary of the township.

"Thomas Patterson married a Miss Huffman in Pennsylvania and came to the township in 1807, and located where Johnathon Swickard was.

"Mathias Dague and wife, their sons, Mathias, Jr., Daniel and George, came also in 1807. (Given in two or three other records previously.)

"Daniel Swickard came 1822, settled near the Baughmans and Dagues, in Jefferson township. Later he moved to Plain township. This family has intermarried with the Baughmans and Dagues. The two later families and those with whom they have intermarried have been very prominent in the county.

"In 1808 The Reverend John Williams, minister in the Methodist Episcopal church of the Yankee street settlement, in Delaware County held services at the Baughman and Dague cabins. He came from Pennsylvania and settled two miles south of Galena. The Reverend Benjamin Lakin and Reverend John Graves also held services there."

Jonathon Dague has given an account of his mother, Mrs. George (Baughman) Dague, referred to on a preceding page, in the records from "Old Northwest Genealogy Quarterly."

"Mrs. Dague was the daughter of George and Barbara Baughman. Her name was Mary, May by some, and Polly for short. George and Barbara were both in the pension roll. Mary Baughman Dague was born in Bucks County, Pennsylvania on the 24th of January, 1792, and moved to Ohio 1807 with her parents who located near Rocky Fork, Plain township, Franklin County. She was married to George Dague, 1810, with whom she lived over fifty years, her husband dying in 1861 (?).

"She was the first white woman married in Plain township. She had frequently seen large bands of Indians encamping on the bottom lands near her father's home. She died in 1877, leaving three children, fourteen grandchildren, twenty-seven great-grandchildren and four representatives of a fourth generation. She was a member of the Franklin County Pioneer Association."

"Among the first settlers of Jefferson township was Daniel Dague and others. Jefferson was originally a part of Liberty but was afterward attached for civil purposes to Plain township. Among the early settlers of Plain township were Adam Baughman and wife, George Baughman and wife, Mathias Dague and sons, Daniel and George Dague; and Mathew and Geo. Campbell and others."

Vesey, "History of Franklin County, 1901, pages 55 and 62.

The following is taken from the Land Commissioner's Office, State of Maryland:

" 'Hap At A Venture', 74 acres, surveyed for Andrew Dagg, 22nd September, 1713, and patented to him 10th April, 1715, lying in Dorchester on the west side of Chichinanocomoco River and adjoins a tract called Shrewsbury". Liber R.Y. No. 1, folio 419.

" 'Hap At A Venture', 82 acres Resurveyed for Andrew Dagg, 7th April, 1756. Being a resurvey on part of a tract called 'Evans Chance'. Lying in Dorchester County. "Dorchester County unpatented certificate No. 528.

" 'Fagg's Adventure', 148 acres. Resurveyed for John Fagg, 3d October, 1760, and patented to him 29th September, 1762. Lying in Charles County and being a resurvey on a tract called 'Adams Delight' ".

The clerk of the Land Commissioner's Office that it would appear from the Dorchester County records that Andrew Dagg of 1713 had a son, Andrew, who married a daughter of Edward Evans, and in Evans' will 1749, he leaves him forty acres of 'Evans Chance'.

THE HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

Records of Early Arrivals.

Mrs. Nellie Spring from Wausseon, Ohio, looking over records of the Dague family found the following in the Ohio State Library:

"Frederick Deeg and Andreas Deeg, October 3, 1753, Ship Eastern Branch, James Nevin, captain. From Rotterdam, last from Portsmouth.

"Johannes Dage, Ship Hero, Captain Ralph Forster, from Rotterdam, last from Cowles, October 27, 1764."

Mrs. W. Craig Lee of Washington, Pennsylvania quotes as follows: "In the ship records from Rotterdam in 1771 I found the names of George Dage and Johannus Dage, both October 27, 1764."

Interesting record (see page 24) were sent by Mr. C. R. Swickard of Columbus, Ohio, concerning early arrivals of some of the members of the Dague family. These were taken from the Pennsylvania German Pioneers, in three volumes distributed January, 1935, by the Pennsylvania German Society of Morristown, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Swickard traced the ship signatures from the facsimilies made from signatures, to original documents in the State Archives, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

All these arrivals spoken of were from Rotterdam and landed in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and their names are found in Volume II, of "Pennsylvania German Pioneers". Volume I contains the ship captains' lists. The captains were careless and spelled the names any old way. For example Andrias's name was spelled "Tech" on ship list, "Deg" on oath list where he signed his own name. Frederick's surname was spelled "Tech" on ship list, and "Deeg" on oath list.

Volume II has the facsimilies of the passengers excepting those who were sick; also those of women and children under sixteen. The "B" lists are those who signed the oaths of allegiance to the king of England, and province of Pennsylvania.

The "C" lists are lists of those who signed the oath of abjuration (an oath asserting the right of the present royal line). Under the "A" list appear the names, Michael Deeg, Frederick Tech, Andreas Tech and George Deg. The "A" lists were the ship captains' lists, which were spelled in most any way. If one will observe the tracings made by Mr. Swickard on page 15, he will see that the name is always Deg and each one signed his own name and did not make his mark, which fact is significant, for they all had at least some "schooling".

Mr. Swickard traced Frederick's signature to his will which was made forty-three years after landing. It is not quite like that in the oath of allegiance, due, no doubt, to his changing over gradually to English and his age. It is mixed German and English.

In an "A" list No. 469, Vol. III, page 134, of "Pennsylvania German Pioneers" is Johann David Deeg, pages 131-132 which gives a copy of the contract, cost per passenger, food to be served, etc. He came on the ship, Commerce from Amsterdam and arrived at the Port of Philadelphia, 1803.

OF THE DAGUE FAMILY

Edward (-|-) Deghe came in the ship, Osgood from Rotterdam and Cowes, by list 145, Volume I, page 445.

Charles E. Leyda of Pittsburgh, says in regard to the oath of allegiance to the king, that had to be given by the immigrants to America, that this oath had to be taken at the port of entry. He says that the edict requiring it went into effect in the year 1727. The records of immigrants are preserved at Harrisburg. There are probably records of Dagues who arrived at Baltimore and New York, but the writer does not have any of these.

Immigrants taking the oath of allegiance had to, or did break the oath, when they went into the Revolution. German immigrants came from different parts of Germany and traveled to Rotterdam where they boarded ships. These ships crossed to England and cleared out of some English port for America. The heading of the oath lists read something like the following: "Ship, Eastern Branch from (certain place) but late from Cowes etc." The immigrants ~~to be~~, swore allegiance, then signed their names in the list as having taken the oath.

Frederick Deeg's signature of the Ship, Eastern Branch, and of the will forty-three years later were given to a specialist in languages, to see if the same man signed both signatures. Dr. William J. Hinkle, the specialist, gave the following statement: "No doubt about it; they were made by the same man. The distinguishing resemblance is the capital "D", flat top "g", and full fat "e". Frederick was an old man about ready to depart when he made the Washington County signature, or that of his will."

It is interesting to note that there is a town by the name of Degge in Bavaria about 70 miles northeast of Munich, Germany.

All those names in black type are in the Genealogy

From the Bethlehem Evangelical Lutheran Church is given a list of the names of the fathers of children baptized before the year 1800. In this list are found the names of Martin Deg, Mathias Deg, Jacob Deg, Johannes Deg, and Friedrich Deg, Mathias Deig, Friedrich Deig, Johannes Deig, and Elizabeth Deg are names on a list who took part in the first Communion Services of that church in 1791. (Names in black face type in the genealogy) Mathias with his family or a part of it moved to Plain Township, Franklin County, Ohio, about 1807. The Baughmans came about the same time or perhaps a little earlier. In this new country their cabins became centers of worship.

To continue the history of the Bethlehem Evangelical Lutheran Church—This church was at first a school house for the township. It had a clapboard roof, windows of greased paper, and the bare earth for a floor. It was in this old log school house that Pastor Johannes Stauchtur began his ministry confirming a class of thirty-two, October 30, 1791 and administered the Holy Communion. The second place of worship was used from 1797 to 1846. Tradition says the church was heated by a huge fireplace and lighted by greased lamps. A long pole with a silk pocket on the end was used to gather the offering.

Sometime before 1796 Frederick H. Tague (Dague) born 1768 moved to the old Whetsell estate on Big Wheeling Creek. He rented this land up until 1796 when his father, Frederick. Sr., bought 400 acres of this tract of 500 acres in the year of his death. In this wilderness religion was not neglected. Although the people lived far apart, they always came to hear the minister preach in some home in the community. The home of "Brother Tague," as Frederick H. was called, became a place where congregations gathered to hear the gospel preached.

Reverend Read, a Methodist, was the minister who preached in the vicinity of Big Wheeling Creek for several years. His daughter, Jennie Read, married Robert Addison Dague, Frederick H. Dague's grandson, who later became senator of Iowa.

As time went on other Methodist ministers came into surrounding vicinities and organized churches. The population increased in the Sand Hill neighborhood until the people were able to build a church. They built a frame church on the spot where the present church now stands, the door facing the cemetery. Daniel Dague and his wife Eliza (Luke) Dague, Andrew and his wife, Lucinda (Luke) Dague and a number of their brothers and sisters were charter members of this church.

But times have changed. Many of the Dague population have moved away, some to the cities, some to other communities, and still others to the far West, until today, there are not many left of the old name in Sand Hill Church. One such who moved away with others of his kin was Frederick (Tague) Dague, who was a brother of Daniel and Andrew spoken of above. He went to Columbus, Ohio, and then, later to Illinois. A letter he wrote on March 2, 1838 to his brother Daniel shows the deep religious feeling of those times. The part of the letter in which Frederick tells of the religious enthusiasm reads as follows: "There is a great revival of religion taking place in this country; the greatest I have ever seen. It has taken place among the Old Presbyterians and the Methodists.

"A great many have joined each church. There are many others inquiring what they must do to be saved and seeking earnestly for the salvation of their souls. At a sacramental meeting this winter in McComb, I myself found the Pearl of great price and attached my name to the Old Presbyterian Church. There were fifteen of us joined at one time. It seems that the Lord is still carrying on his work in this Western land." (For the rest of the letter see page 98.)

Many of the old church members did not move on, but are sleeping their long sleep in the cemeteries near the churches they helped to establish. The churches of these early pioneers did a great work, and the people who worked in them passed on. It should be the earnest desire of this generation that the descendants of these pioneers be as faithful and loyal to the ideals of Christ as their ancestors were.

THE HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

The First Known Ancestors

Frederick (Dag) Dague is the first known ancestor of the Dague family in this country. He was born in 1736, probably on the borders of Germany and France. He died in 1796 and was buried in the Bethlehem Cemetery "Dutch Gloria," Washington County, Pennsylvania. He with Andreas, who was probably an older brother, came to Philadelphia in 1753 at which time Frederick was seventeen years old.

On the same ship with Frederick and Andreas was Johan Conrad Giessler. It is interesting to note that Frederick's second wife's family name was Anna Maria Geysler, perhaps the daughter of Johan.

Early tradition reports, that Frederick went to Maryland and later came back to Pennsylvania, but the facts as found in the records show that he never moved from Pennsylvania.

Miss Lottie M. Bauseman, a genealogist of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania gives the following:

"In the marriage record of St. Michaels and Zion, found in Pennsylvania Archives, Philadelphia 1745-1800 2nd. Series, Vol. IX, Page 311 is the record of Andreas.

" 'Andreas Tag and Christina Nicholtzheimer July 1, 1760' "

"Frederick apparently came to Lancaster, or vicinity shortly after landing in this country. He married young and his first wife must have died about 1759. His first wife was Sophia Schmitt to whom he had two children, Catherine Elizabeth and Michael. To his second wife, Maria, he had Mathias and the other children.

"The records suggest that Andreas remained at or near Philadelphia until about 1770, at least he appears in Leacock Twp. in 1772, Lancaster County. He was evidently a resident there for some time, but after 1779 his name disappeared. In the Pennsylvania Archives—3rd Series, Vol. XVII are printed the 1771-1772-1773-1779-1782 Assessment Lists for Lancaster County. No name shows for Andreas 1771. In 1772 for Leacock Township, Page 227 And'w Teag—No land.

"In 1773 Page 396—Leacock Twp. Andrew Deake, no land. The same was true up till 1779 when Andrew Teague was assessed for a horse and six cows. In 1782 the name does not appear in Leacock Twp.

"Henry Taig-Deig—being in the same place as Andrew Teague, but showing after Andreas disappeared is interesting. In the 1790 Census, Henry Deig is living in Earl Twp. and shows with a family 2-0-1. This means that there are two men, no children, and wife. As Andrew lived in Leacock Twp. close Earl Twp. might this be Andrew perhaps father of Henry and the mother, Christina, having died prior to 1790. It looks as if Andreas was living with Henry who probably was his son."

OF THE DAGUE FAMILY

The following records were sent by Miss Bauseman from Lancaster, Pennsylvania:

In the record of Trinity Lutheran Church, Lancaster, Pennsylvania, among the marriages is the following:

Vol. III—Lutheran Church.

Catherine Deeg—daughter of Frederick and Maria, b. Aug. 13, 1762. Baptized Aug. 22.

As said before, Miss Bauseman is inclined to think from her search that Andre who came over with Frederick was his brother and that Henry of the 1790 Census was Andreas's son. The Andrew whose burial record of the Cemetery at Compass, Salisbury Twp. printed in Egle's Notes & Queries-Annual Vol. 1899, page 23, is probably Henry's son.

The record reads as follows:

Andrew Dague d. Sept. 12, 1866 in his 66th year. Mary, wife of Andrew Dague, d. May 21, 1866, aged 66 years.

It is not known definitely when Frederick moved to Washington County, Pennsylvania, but some of his children were quite young at the time. Tradition tells us that the two youngest children were carried, one in each end of a pack sack, on a mule's back. One of the children's name was John; the other probably Mary or Frederick H. Dague.

After coming to Washington County, it is said that the family settled for a time on Levi Souer's farm near Lone Pine. Later Frederick bought 400 acres of land on which he paid taxes at least as early as 1781. This land was bought on a Virginia Certificate and was called Fage's Grove. Later the Virginia Certificate was declared invalid and a Pennsylvania Warrant was granted to Frederick (Dage, Fage, or Tage) 1786. The place was then called High Germany and contained 443 five eighths acres. (See in chapter Patents, Warrants, and Deeds.)

On Ten Mile Creek (Zehn Meilen) Frederick bought 143 acres and eighty-six perches called "Bushy Flat" 1791. In the year 1796 Frederick bought 400 acres of the 500 acres Whetsell tract, situated on Big

Wheeling Creek, in what was then Ohio County, Virginia; today Marshall County, West Virginia. (See in chapter Patents, Warrants, and Deeds.)

The inscriptions on Frederick and Maria's tombstones read as follows:

"Fredrih Deg ward geboren in Iahr 1736 und ist begraben worden den 12 October 1796."

Translated

Frederick Deg was born in the year 1736 and was buried the 12th of October, 1796.

VIEW OF FREDERICK DEG'S HOME

Near Odell, on the National Pike, in Washington County, Pa., stands the old "Mansion" House of Frederick Deg, mentioned in his will, and which was left to Andrew, the youngest son.

OF THE DAGUE FAMILY

THE HOME OF FREDERICK DEG.

This building is a two-story structure, built of immense logs, with the spaces between filled with clay and stones. It has several rooms on each floor and a cellar beneath it. The old house at one time had been weather boarded and a large porch ran the entire length of the front of the house. The part of the house under the porch roof had been covered with whitewash, which can still be seen today, although the porch is now gone. The logs were pinned together at the corners of the house with wooden pins. Strap hinges once held the old front door in place which was divided into a lower and an upper part much like the upper and lower parts of basement doors of a barn. The old home has four, two-sash windows in front; two down stairs, each consisting of twelve panes of glass, and the ones up stairs of nine panes of glass. It had windows, of course, at the ends and back.

As the writer stood recently and looked at this old home, she wished it could speak and tell of the people who had gone out from its walls to various parts of the country. What wonderful stories it could tell! There it sits, surrounded by trees in one of the most beautiful sections of Washington County, forgotten and alone. If it could think and talk, it might ask, "Where are all the men, the women, and the little children gone who used to call me 'Home'? Why am I so forsaken and alone?"

Frederick had five sons and six daughters according to his will. These are Mathias, Michael, Frederick H., John, Andrew, Catherine, Christina, Mary, Margaret, Lucy and one girl who married a Swinehart. These with their descendants will be found in the genealogy as far as it has been possible to locate them.

Michael, Frederick's eldest son, was born in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, 1758. His mother, Sophia Schmitt, was Frederick's first wife. He had one full sister, Catherine Elizabeth, born 1757, but nothing further is known of her. Michael probably died about the year 1821, the year in which he made his will, a copy of which is found following Frederick's will in the chapter "Wills." His burial place cannot be located. It is thought, however, that he was buried in Washington County somewhere; perhaps in a family lot or in one of the Lutheran Cemeteries in the neighborhood. In this vicinity there are several tombstones from which the inscriptions have been worn away. One of these might have been that of Michael.

Michael was deeded 191 acres more or less of his father's home place, but it is not known whether he lived there or not.

Michael's three sons, Frederick, Gabreal, and Michael left Washington County, Pennsylvania, and went to Milton Township, Wayne County, Ohio, about the year 1820 or 1825. They were living in log cabins when Daniel Steiner came in 1825. Michael lived on an eighty acre farm adjoining Daniel Steiner. One of this family of Steiners married one of the Dague girls. Michael was married three times and was Justice of the Peace for thirty years. He was a very conspicuous figure as he always wore a high gray fur hat.

Frederick's farm touched Daniel Steiner's land on one corner. Gabreal had two sons, Cyrus and Gabreal, in the Civil War. Gabreal fought in the opening of the Mississippi River where he was lost and thought dead for a long time.

Three of Frederick's sons, Levi, John, and Frederick, left Wayne County and went to Penfield, Loraine County and established their homes in that place. Jonas came later and located in Chatham, Medina County. A sister who married Frank Hartel, located at Spencer, Medina County. Henry, the oldest of the family went to Kansas and there reared his family. Later he went to Washington State.

Mathias, born 1761 in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, was Frederick's second son. His mother was Frederick's second wife, Anna Maria Geysler. He came to Washington County with his father, married and had several children by 1807 in which year he went to Franklin County, Ohio. In 1795 before he went to Ohio, his father deeded him 143 acres of land on Ten Mile Creek, Washington County. He is buried in the old Dague Cemetery, Gahanna near Albany, Ohio. This cemetery is still in possession of his descendants and is over one hundred years old. Deceased of five generations are buried in this plot. This Dague Cemetery was set aside by Mathias in 1820 and in 1821 his wife, Elizabeth, was buried there.

Mathias's name and record as an influential man has gone down in the history of the state of Ohio, and has been preserved by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Buried here are several of his descendants who served in the Civil War. Among these are Edmund and Benjamin Dague. Mrs. Ella Souder, each Memorial Day meets the patriotic societies who come to decorate the graves. For forty-five years, since a young girl, she has never failed to be present with her flag and basket of flowers to take part in honoring her ancestors. She is a daughter of Edmund Dague, grand-daughter of Daniel Dague and great-granddaughter of Mathias.

In 1802 Mathias was appointed commissioner of Franklin County. He with his family and others who came about the same time, the Swickards, the Baughmans, and the Huffmans were pioneers in a strange land. They had the task of laying the foundation of civilization upon which others built. Their task was hard, but through perseverance and courage, they with later comers, finally built a new state into the Union.

"Mathias Dague, pr., Pennsylvania Militia was pensioned October 12, 1833. Born 1761 in Pennsylvania: died February 16, 1847 in Plain Township, Franklin County. Buried in cemetery two miles from New Albany. Monument inscription reads: 'Mathias Dague, died Feb. 16, 1847: aged 86 years.' Grave marked by Revolutionary Graves Committee, with brone marker, May 30, 1912. Came from Pennsylvania in 1810 and settled in the southeastern part of Plain Township. For further information, see Columbus Chapter D. A. R. "From D. A. R.'s Official Roster of Revolutionary Soldiers Buried in Ohio, Page 100."

Another reads from the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Pensions shows that Mathias Dague applied for a pension in 1832 and the claim was granted. The residence at date of application was Plain Township, Franklin County, Ohio.

He was Private eight months with T. Crooks as captain at Lindley's Fort, Pennsylvania; three months with Mathias Hook as captain at Atkinson Fort; four months with L. Brinton captain and Crawford as colonel with whom he was in several scouting and spying parties until the close of the war.

Frederick H. Dague was the third son of Frederick. He was born 1768 and died April 18, 1852 and was buried in old Dague lot, in what is today Marshall County, West Virginia, sixteen miles up Big Wheeling Creek, from Wheeling. As mentioned before, Frederick H's father had bought 400 acres of the 500 acre Whetsell tract in 1796. A few years before this date, Frederick H. rented a part or all of the Whetsell land of 500 acres. His nearest neighbor, down the creek, five miles distant was John Whetsell and his family who lived on a 1000 acre tract which he had bought 1787 from Governor Randolph of Virginia. On this 1000 acre tract John Whetsell, Sr., built his cabin which was destroyed by the Indians, at which time John was killed and his two sons, Louis and Jacob were captured.

The warrant for the 500 acre tract was issued in 1783 to be turned over to John Whetsell when he had made certain improvements on the land. To do this he was given a period of five years at the end of which time the land was to be his. Some of these improvements, no doubt, were made by Frederick H. Dague when the land was rented to him. As John Whetsell was killed in 1787 this tract was turned over to the family in 1788, and as said before, Frederick's father bought 400 acres of this land, from the Whetsell heirs.

Frederick's nearest neighbor up the creek was Michael Crow. Frederick H. liked this land very much so his father sold him 200 acres of the 400 acre tract which had been bought from the Whetsell heirs. This land lay on the right side of the creek ascending the stream. Later Frederick H. bought the other 200 acres more or less from the Dague heirs and built a "Mansion House" similar to his boyhood home on the left side of the creek, near the place where the present home stands.

This old Dague place has been one of the interesting spots in the Wheeling Creek valley. A chapter, "History of Sand Hill District", taken from the book, "The History of the Pan-Handle", gives the following bit of history. "Many years, probably many centuries before the Western world became the home of the Eastern explorer, the territory now embraced within the limits of Sand-Hill District was favorite resort of that race whose monuments in the shape of various mounds and stone implements remain in profusion throughout the greater part of the Mississippi Valley. The wild and romantic beauty of the scenery allured them, and the clear waters of Wheeling Creek and its tributaries for which the district is noted, furnished numerous watering places for the deer and other animals, which were pierced by their stone arrows as they wandered to the banks to drink."

THE HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

"The superior polish of the weapons he has left, and the pieces of ancient pottery exhumed in this district, indicate that he had attained a degree of civilization never reached by the Indian tribes which succeeded him, and the fact that these remains are invariably found in the most charming localities may lead to the conclusion that like many of the Indians, their appreciation of the sublime and beautiful in nature was by no means undeveloped. Their traces are very numerous in all parts of Marshall County, but in Sand Hill District which is incontestably the most beautiful and picturesque region, they abound in unusual numbers. Darts and arrow heads, hatchets, skinning knives, pipes, and ancient fragments of pottery have been found upon the farm of Daniel Dague in sufficient numbers to form a very respectable collection, and there are, no doubt, equal numbers on adjoining farms."

Daniel Dague is the son of Frederick H. Dague who deeded his son a part of the old Whetsell tract. On this farm were found deer horn and bone beads; turtle, Indian head and other forms of pipes; long bone needles; stones for crushing corn; stone buttons, tomahawks, hatchets, and flints. The smaller implements were made, for the most part, of black and gray granite rock. Here were found thirteen Indian mounds, all but two situated on the bluffs above Big Wheeling Creek. Some of the mounds have been removed. One at the upper end of the place, in a large level field was removed by Daniel Dague and his son, John. From this mound were removed 650 double wagon loads of stone. This mound was a burial place for the Indians, as indicated by the great numbers of bones and teeth found under the rocks, some of which were very large.

"The History of the Pan-Handle" goes on to say that one of these mounds was seventy-five feet in circumference. Daniel Dague estimated that from five to six hundred bodies were buried here, a layer of bodies and a layer of stones, one on top of the other.

"The History of the Pan-Handle", continues as follows: "A short distance from the residence of Mr. Dague, on the bank of Wheeling Creek, may be seen what was once a village and manufacturing place. Fragments of ancient pottery may be found here in great quantities; in some places they are at least two feet thick on the ground. This ancient race displayed considerable skill in the manufacture of their vases, judging from the many different patterns that have been found, and the way in which they were decorated. The composition of their pottery is supposed to be of mussel shells, charcoal, and fire clay. These remains cover about three acres of land, and at the time the farm was settled up by Mr. Dague's father (Frederick H. Dague) there was no large timber on this spot, except one large walnut tree.

OF THE DAGUE FAMILY

"It is supposed from the number of human bones found here, that the inhabitants of this village had been slain in battle and the remains left unburied. When the rich black soil is plowed, here and there, over the field can be seen the reddish burnt places where the Indians had their fires and the spots where they made their pottery. All kinds of implements, and bodies were turned out, especially when plowed extra deep. Large and small bodies were scattered pell mell over this field, some with broken backs, dented skulls, broken bones, etc."

J. W. Dague when living on this farm plowed out an Indian skeleton with beads made of small bones, around its waist. Many other interesting relics were unearthed on the finishing furrow where the plow reached double depth.

J. W. Dague tells the following story in regard to the destruction of this Indian village: "When Daniel Dague, my father, was a middle aged man, a Mr. Martin Armstrong from Pennsylvania came into Sand Hill District to thresh for the farmers in that vicinity. When he came to father's place he asked to be shown the mouth of Wolf Run. When he saw the place, Mr. Armstrong said that his father with others had fought a battle with the Indians on the bluff opposite the mouth of Wolf Run. He went on to state that the Indians from this settlement had been for some time going up into western Pennsylvania and committing all kinds of depredations. Finally the whites could stand this treatment no longer. An expedition was fitted out, with Captain Porter and Colonel McCarther at its head. Among the soldiers was Martin Armstrong's father and some of the early Pennsylvania Dagues. When the army neared the village, it divided into three divisions. One came over Buzzard's Point, one over the brow of the hill to the east, and one from the south by the way of Wolf Run. Not an Indian was left to tell the tale. Every man, woman, and child was killed."

When Frederick H. Dague came into this region, it is said "Painters" were numerous and wolves were so plentiful that it was extremely difficult to protect sheep, hogs, and even young cattle from their ravages.

The vicinity of the Dague place on Wheeling Creek has several Indian stories which are connected up with other communities. Some of these stories have been recorded in local histories, while others have been handed down from older to younger generations. The story of the Crow girls, is found in the "History of Ohio County," but the story as told by Frederick H. and his son, Daniel Dague differs from this book account. The story of the attack upon the Whetsell home, told by the Dague pioneers is very much like the story related by the book, "Whetsell, the Scout."

As said previously, Frederick H. Dague's nearest neighbor up the creek was Michael Crow. One Saturday afternoon 1791, three of Michael Crow's daughters started to go to the home of a neighbor farther up the creek. The girls intended to attend religious services with their nearest neighbor on Sunday. The girls were accompanied by their father on horseback as far as Crow Creek, over which he took the girls on his horse. After watching them, until they had gone through the denser part of the forest, he amused himself for a short time by splashing around in the water with his horse.

Little did he suspect that just a short distance away, behind a rock, a white man and two Indians had been watching him and his daughters. All at once Mr. Crow sprang on his horse and galloped away. The Indians, supposing they had been seen, and thinking Mr. Crow was going for help, hurried on after the daughters and overtook them some distance away. After a hurried discussion as to their fate, their hands were tied and they were lined up to be tomahawked. The youngest girl slipped her hands out of the cords, and ran away pursued by her captors, before they had time to strike the fatal blows that fell upon the heads of her sisters. She hid in the top of a recently fallen tree. As her pursuers searched for her, one of them stood on the butt of the tree, in the top of which she was hiding. She felt sure the Indian could hear her heart beating as he stood there. After what seemed ages to her, the Indian moved on, and she made her way home after night fall and told her dreadful story. Her father with others, hurried to the scene of the terrible tragedy, and found the tomahawked girls one of which was still living. She had regained consciousness and crawled about in the forest, but she died later.

A few years after this tragedy, it is said, a white man and an Indian stopped at the Crow Home for the noon-day meal. After they had been gone for some time, the escaped girl told her father that these men were her sisters' murderers. She did not tell her father while they were present for she was afraid he would kill them. Mr. Crow, however, set out at once with his gun and was gone for some time. It is supposed that he waylaid these men and killed them. So goes the story as told by the pioneer Dagues.

In Sand Hill District where Oak Hill School now stands, George Tush and his wife lived in a little log cabin. He lived eight or nine miles back in the hills from the Dague place. One morning he went out to feed his stock. Just as he finished his work, he saw the Indians coming. As he ran the Indians shot at him and struck him in the elbow, but he was so frightened that he did not realize it at the time.

He rushed into the house, told his wife to flee, snatched a gun from the wall, and turned to hold the Indians at bay until his wife could make her escape. He attempted to raise his gun, and for the first time, realized that his arm had been shot and would not bear the weight of the gun. He turned and ran in the direction his wife had gone. The Indians pursued and overtook Mrs. Tush and made her their prisoner. In his flight from the Indians, Mr. Tush fell over a cliff and became unconscious from the fall. He lay in that state all day and all night; he came to just as the sun was coming up, and made his way to Wheeling where he told his story. A squad of men followed the Indians for several days into Ohio, but did not find Mrs. Tush. Mr. Tush did not give up hope; day after day with his dog he roamed over parts of Ohio in search of his wife. One day in the forest his dog ran to a log and began digging. He followed the dog and found a piece of his wife's dress and other remains that convinced him that his wife had been killed.

Another story handed down to Florence Jones either refers to the George Tush family or another family of the same name. According to Miss Jones's story, a Tush family lived on what today is known as the old Cole place on Oak Hill. One of the boys had gone to the spring to get water. While he was gone the Indians attacked the home, killing some and capturing others. The mother and her little baby were carried away and were never heard of again. During the attack, the boy who was returning with his bucket of water saw the Indians and got away. He made his way as fast as possible to Whetsell or Shepherd's Fort situated near the Shepherd bridge and the site of John Whetsell's old home. When he arrived there, the Tush boy was still carrying his pail partly filled with water. A searching party was organized to find Mrs. Tush and her child, but they were never found.

The incidents of the next story were given by Jake Earlywine to his grandson, Tom Earlywine who lives at Elm Grove, West Virginia. The Earlywine family lived on what is today the Faubel place. In order to find their cows when turned out in the woods, the owners put bells on them. One day Barney Earlywine in company with Louis Whetsell went out to find the cows. The boys followed the sound of the bell, deeper and deeper into the woods. Suddenly in the depth of the forest, the Indians sprang upon the boys and made them prisoners. The Indians had taken the bell from the cow and used it to decoy the boys. Barney resisted the Indians and retarded their progress. They threatened him but to no avail. He kept up such a loud wailing and crying that finally, one of the Indians took him off into the forest and scalped him. Soon after Louis escaped and returned home.

One day a bear came quite close to the Whetsell home. Louis suspected the bear to be an Indian in disguise and threatened to shoot him. The Indian took the hint and went away, but John Whetsell, fearful of an attack, took his son, John, and two little girls with him to Wheeling where he left them in case of trouble. He bought an extra supply of powder and hurried home where he arrived in the evening. That night his home was attacked. Martin escaped through a window as the house was set on fire. John Whetsell in resisting the savages was killed, and Louis and Jacob were captured. The mother escaped and finally made her way to Wheeling, where she was joined by Louis and Jacob who had escaped from the Indians.

Louis never forgot his awful experience of that night. As he was dragged away from his home, he saw his father struck dead and his home in flames. The horror of that night never left his mind. He dearly loved his father, but now all that love was turned to hate against all Indians. His purpose in life seemed to be to kill as many Indians as possible, and in this way to avenge his father's death. History has recorded many deaths of Indians at his hands. One might wonder how many deaths were left unrecorded.

Tradition has kept alive two such deaths in the Dague vicinity of that day. A story is told that an Indian warrior was caught in the quick sands at the mouth of Wolf Run. He was trying to extricate himself from the treacherous sands, but he was not making much headway and finally was gradually going down. Louis Whetsell came along and watched him for some time probably thinking that there would be one less Indian to cause trouble. Finally he thought of his father's death and decided to have a part in the warrior's death. He took careful aim and shot, then with hard drawn face he walked away.

At another time Louis was resting down in Bruce's Run near the falls, a wild and almost inaccessible place. Silently an Indian crept from tree to tree to within shooting distance of Louis, but the savage didn't want to shoot him as he wished to take him alive. The Indian thought he had Louis in his power, now. He rushed upon him, and since the Indian had a more powerful frame, he got the better of his foe. He taunted Louis by telling him how he would be tortured and by showing him how a white man grins when being scalped. The attack was so sudden that Louis had no opportunity to use his gun. Suddenly with almost super-human effort, he wrenched himself loose from his antagonist, snatched up his gun, and shot the Indian saying as he did so, "I'll see how an Indian grins when a white man shoots him."

In cutting out timber from the old Dague place, at different times, a few interesting trees have come to light. At one time, Oscar Dague was clearing off a bank on the old home place. Inside one of the trees he had cut down he found a hole bored three or four inches into the wood with an inch auger. Into this hole a plug had been driven, back of which was found a bunch of horse hair. The plug of wood had been cut off even with the inner bark and the outside wood and bark had continued to grow and closed and covered up the wound in the tree. Oscar made inquiry concerning his find. J. W. Dague, his father explained as follows:

"I remember, sometime before I was married of hearing father say that one of his horses had the 'Sweeney' and that he was going to try a cure told to him by his father, Frederick H. Dague. He said the hair must be cut from the sick horse's shoulder and placed in a hole bored into a tree. Then the hole must be plugged. All these things must be done early in the morning before the sun is up and before speaking to any one."

Evidently the attempt had been made to cure the horse as the tree testified, but whether the horse was cured or not, is another question.

A few years ago, J. W. Dague was taking out some timber from Line Run Hollow. Among the trees cut was a large white oak which kept two men busy for half a day before it yielded to the strokes of their axes. The men were struck by the unusual number of rings in the tree. When they counted them they found that the age of the tree was 969 years old.

Several years ago on the opposite side of the creek from J. W. Dague's place another tree was cut down at the fording on what had been Frederick H. Dague's first tract of land in earlier days. The tree was a sycamore and was about three or four hundred years old. This tree, from the ground, up to about twenty feet was solid. From this point, the tree was partly hollow up to about forty feet where there was an opening about six inches in diameter when the tree was cut. This opening at one time had been large enough to admit a person's body, but a new growth of the tree had partly closed this opening.

As soon as the tree fell, the men began to saw it up into large logs. Two logs had been taken off and the men had begun on a third, when the saw struck the hollow part of the tree. They tried at another part of the tree and the same thing was repeated. The third time they sawed on through the tree. On investigation they found human bones, many of which had decayed, but others had been preserved by the decayed soil of the tree. Among these bones were those of the hands, feet, thigh, arms, legs, ribs and others. Some of the bones had been gnawed by animals which evidently had gone into the tree from the opening above.

Many have wondered about the unhappy fate of the person whose final resting place was in the old tree. Did he flee from the Indians and hide himself in the opening of the tree, miss his footing and fall into the tree, or was he killed and dropped down inside the tree by some one else? If so for what reason? No one will ever know. If all these old trees could speak our language what interesting and wonderful stories they could tell us.

John Dague, another of Frederick's children was born 1771, died 1838. John unlike his brothers, Mathias, Frederick H., and Andrew lived and died in the state where he was born. John received 141 acres of the old home grant of land. To this farm John II added seventy five acres. On the part received from his father, John I built a log house which has been torn down. In 1811 John I bought land where Elmer Dague now lives. He built here a large brick house that was a real mansion in its day. He left the part of the old home place his father deeded to him to his son, John II. It is said that all John II's children were born here and many of later generations. Some one of them built a brick house on this land which is still standing. After John I had built his beautiful brick home, he built a very large barn which also is still standing. It was pinned together with wooden pegs and the weather boards were nailed on with hand made nails.

John had a still, and as high as one hundred barrels of whiskey at a time has been stored in this old barn.

Andrew was the youngest son of Frederick. He was born 1775, and died July 29, 1855. He is buried in the Fancher cemetery, Delaware County, Ohio.

Frederick Deg in his will left Andrew the middle section of the old home place where the "Mansion House" of the will stands. He was to take care of his mother until her death. Andrew was married twice, his first wife being Catherine Dager to whom most of his children were born and his second wife, Mary McCarty to whom he had one daughter. When Andrew went to the West he left his land to his son, Jonathon. Then it went to Andrew Jackson Dague whose children were born and reared in the old "Mansion House".

Catherine Dague, Frederick's daughter was born 1779, died August 10, 1862.

Christina was another daughter. All that is known of her is that she had a part in Frederick's will. The same is true of Margaret, Lucy, and one daughter who married a Swinehart. She was dead when Frederick made his will in 1796, and her five children, Frederick, Andrew, Peter, Gabriel and Margaret received their mother's share of the estate.

Mary another daughter of Frederick, married Daniel Swickard, who was born 1764, and died 1849. Mary was born June 17, 1769, and died January 24, 1863. She was very fair, had blue eyes and light hair. After her husband died, she went to Sandusky County, Ohio, near Fremont. She lived with her daughter, Catherine, who married Jonathon Feters. She, Mary, is buried in the Fetter's lot, Smith Cemetery 1 1-2 miles northwest of Burgeon, Jackson township, Sandusky County, Ohio. Daniel was buried in cemetery New Albany, Ohio.

Mrs. Grace Dague Shields is authority for locating two of Frederick Dague's brothers, William Dague (Deg) and John Dague (Deg). William is the father of A. Y. Deg and B. Y. Deg, buried in the Horn cemetery, near Zollerville.

John and William lived in Virginia (now West Virginia) half way between Morgantown and the southwest corner of the state of Maryland, in Weitzell County. It is on the old route that was traveled from Snow Creek, Virginia, to camp Catfish in Washington County, Pennsylvania. Frederick, born 1736 came to Washington County before his brothers, from Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

The above plot of land all belonged to Frederick Tage previous to 1795. At first it was called Fage's Grove, later High Germany. See surveys, 1785 and 1786.

Of the land above, Michael was deeded 119 acres more or less, July 20, 1795; John was deeded 141 acres more or less, July 10, 1795; and Andrew was willed the remainder by Frederick, his father.

John Sr., it seems built the house marked (2) and part of his children were born there. In 1811 he bought the land where Elmer Dague now lives and the rest of his family was reared there. John Sr., left his farm above to his son, John, whose children were all born in the old house marked (2) and perhaps others of later generations. The old house before its destruction, had been used as a sheep shed. Some time previous to this time the brick house had been built, marked (3) above. John Jr., bought 75 acres which added to the 141 acres deeded by his father made him a farm of 216 acres.

OF THE DAGUE FAMILY

The middle section of the above plot was willed to Andrew who was to care for his mother until her death. The will of Frederick (See Wills) gives all the specifications. Frederick called the house marked (1) above the "Mansion House" in the will. Andrew finally went West and left his part of Frederick's estate to his son, Jonathon, who in turn left it to Andrew Jackson Dague, whose children are, Wm. C. Dague, Ira, Sarah Leona, Harrison V., Jonathon, Andrew and Florence, all of whom were born in the old "Mansion House", (1).

The Whetsell Warrants

Since John Whetsell was a noted local Indian fighter and Pioneer who bought two tracts of land on Big Wheeling Creek, a part of which was bought by Frederick Tage, it seemed fitting to include these two warrants with the Dagues.

The first deed ever given for the old Dague place on Big Wheeling Creek was that of Governor Randolph to John Whetsell. A copy of the deed follows:

Edmund Randolph, Esquire, Governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

TO ALL TO WHOM these presents shall come, GREETING: KNOW YE, that by virtue and in consideration of a Presumption Treasury Warrant Number two thousand four hundred and ninety eight: issued the twenty third day of June, One Thousand and Seven Hundred and Eighty-three,

There is granted by the said Commonwealth unto John Whetsell a certain tract of land, containing Five Hundred Acres, by survey bearing date the Twelfth day of February, One Thousand seven Hundred and Eighty Seven lying and being in the County of Ohio, on Big Wheeling Creek and bounded as follows. TO WIT, Beginning at a Sugar tree standing on the bank of Big Wheeling by the mouth of a drain, thence South One Hundred and Forty Poles to two White Oaks, thence South Twenty Degrees east One Hundred and Eighty Poles to a White Oak, thence South Seventy One Degrees east One Hundred and Eighteen Poles to a Black Oak, thence North Seventy Two Degrees east Eighty Poles to a Spanish Oak. N. 15 E. 70 Poles crossing Wheeling Creek to a Sugar tree N. 75 W. 80 Poles to a Hickory N. 43 W. 80 poles to a Sycamore on the bank of the Creek, then down the several courses and meanders 132 Poles to a Sugar tree, thence leaving said Creek N. 100 Poles crossing Turkey Run to a Sugar and White Oak S. 100 Poles to a White Walnut standing on the bank of the Creek at the mouth of Turkey Run, comes to Lawrence Stricker and with his line up the several courses and meanders of said Creek crossing the same 88 Poles to the Beginning, with its appurtenances to the said John Whetsell and his heirs forever.

IN WITNESS whereof the said Edmund Randolph, Governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia, hath hereunto set His Hand, and caused the Lesser Seal of the said Commonwealth to be affixed at Richmond. on the Thirteenth day of June in the year of Our Lord, One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eighty Eight and of the Commonwealth the Twelfth.

Edmund Randolph.

(Seal)

On the outside of this warrant are these words. "John Whetsell is entitled to the within mentioned tract of land.

John Harris, Rec. Sec."

The old original deeds are written on parchment. These tracts of land were in Ohio County, Virginia, but today are in Marshall County, West Virginia. West Virginia became a state June 20, 1863, and Marshall County was cut out of Ohio County about 1834, 1835, or 1836.

The Second Whetsell Warrant

Edmund Randolph Esquire, Governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia.

To all whom these presents shall come, Greeting: Know ye that, by consideration of a treasurer Warrant Number Two Thousand four hundred and seventy four and issued the Twenty third day of June One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eighty Three.

There is granted by the said commonwealth unto John Whetsell of Richmond a certain Tract or Parcel of land containing One Thousand Acres by survey bearing date the Fifteenth day of July One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eighty Four and being in the County of Ohio on the waters of Big Wheeling Creek and bounded as follows, to-wit—,

Beginning at a hickory and sugar tree on the banks of a run and running thence West three hundred and forty poles to a Black Oak thence South four hundred and Seventy Poles to a White Oak thence East three hundred and forty poles to a Black Oak and Chestnut thence North four hundred and seventy poles to the beginning; with its appurtenances: To have and to hold the said Tract or Parcel of land with its appurtenances to the said John Whetsell and his heirs forever. In witness whereof the said Edmund Randolph Esquire governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia hath herewith set his Hand, caused the lesser seal of the said Commonwealth to be affixed at Richmond on the sixteenth day of April in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eighty Seven and of the Commonwealth the Eleventh.

Signed, Edmund Randolph.

One the back of the warrant is the following: "John Whetsell is entitled to the within mentioned tract of land."

John F. Adams. R. S. Off.

(The above warrant is in Possession of Mr. Harry R. Caldwell, R. D., 2, No. 107 A, Wheeling).

The old stone monument was built in Henry Clay's honor. The old mansion stands on the bank of Wheeling Creek, Elm Grove.

Land Deeded by Daniel Dague for School Purposes

This deed made this sixteenth day of August, in the year 1869 between Daniel Dague of the first part, and the said Daniel Dague, Abner Kimmons, and Silas H. Davis who constitute the Board of Education of the Township of Sand Hill in Marshall County, State of West Virginia of the second part,

THE HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

Witnesseth, that in consideration of five cents the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, the party of the first part do grant unto the parties of the second part and to their successors in office for educational purposes all of a certain piece of land or parcel of land situated on Big Wheeling Creek in Sand Hill Township in the county and State aforesaid, described as follows:

Beginning at a stone near the road, thence with the said road to Conkle's line, thence with Conkle's line to a Black Walnut bush (Now a large tree) thence west to a stake outside the fence, thence a straight line to the beginning, containing one third of an acre or more, To have and to hold, unto the said Board of Education so long as used for school purposes; and when the land ceases to be used for school purposes to revert back to the said Daniel Dague or his heirs and to their successors in office for the aforesaid, the above described piece or parcel of land with all and singular the appurtenances thereto belonging, with covenant of general warranty.

Witness the following signature and seals,

Daniel Dague

Seal

Township of Sand Hill in Marshall County, To wit: I, James Smith, a Justice of the peace for the County aforesaid, in the state of West Virginia, do certify that Daniel Dague whose name is signed to the writing above, bearing date on the sixteenth day of August acknowledged the same before me in my county aforesaid. Given under my hand this sixteenth day of August.

James Smith -J. P.

Inasmuch as some consideration was necessary in order to make the contract binding, Daniel Dague accepted only five cents as is shown in the deed.

After the above named land was given by Daniel Dague for school purposes, the Board of Education built a schoolhouse called "Dague School." Later the name was changed to "Line Run." For years the school served its purpose. As time went on the attendance of the school became smaller and smaller until there was not a child of school age in the district. The school was closed about the year 1906 or 1907.

The land on which the school house was built went back to the Dague place when the school closed. J. W. Dague bought the school house from the Board of Education about the year 1911.

This deed for school purposes suggests the condition of education in Western Virginia before and after the Civil War. The people living on Wheeling Creek before the Civil War were very much interested in education. The state of Virginia did not provide schools for Western Virginia so the people had to do that for themselves. They provided Subscription Schools in order to give their children the rudiments of an education.

The first school of this type in the Dague community was situated at what is known as Viola today, on the spot where Wilson's shop now stands on the right of the road a short distance from the place where it goes up the "Step Hill." Daniel Dague and several of his brothers and sisters and cousins attended this school. The term was three months and the teachers were "boarded round." A later generation moved the Subscription School up the creek at the fording opposite a part of the old Dague place. This school was known as Paw Paw because it was built in a paw paw thicket. Both of these schools were built of logs and were typical of all such school houses.

After the Civil War Sand Hill District began to provide for free schools with the help of the state. At first the people were not able to build frame school houses of the better type. In the Dague vicinity at Line Run, Mr. Conkle provided a house for school purposes previous to Daniel Dague's gift of land. A teacher was hired for three months, which was the length of the school year in the rural districts for several years.

Land Deeded to Andrew Dage by Ailey and John White.

(Andrew-Youngest son of Frederick, born 1736)

This indenture made this twenty-fifth day of January in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty-two, by and between John White and Ailey, his wife of the county of Washington, and State of Pennsylvania, of the one part and Andrew Dage of the county and State aforesaid of the other part.

Witnesseth that the said John White and Ailey, his wife for and in Consideration of the sum of fifty dollars lawfull money to them in hand paid by the said Andrew Dage at and before the unsealing and Delivering of this Indenture, The Receipt whereof they do hereby acknowledge and therewith being fully satisfied hath granted, bargained and sold—Release and Compromise and by these presents doth Grant, bargain and sell and offer. Release and Confirm unto Andrew Dage his heirs assigns all and singular the following described tract or piece of land with the appurtenances, situated and being on the waters of ten mile Creek in the aforesaid County of Washington and State of Pennsylvania.

My grandfathers name was Andrew. As near as I can remember, I never saw him but once and that was when I was a little girl. He lived in Ohio, and had come to Pennsylvania on a visit. He was deaf. He carried a slate and anyone who wished to talk with him had to write on the slate. I don't remember of his being married the second time but likely he was. My father's name was Jonathon, born April 25th 1806. He had a brother Israel who died when I was quite small, though I remember seeing him. Peter and Frederick I just heard of, never saw them. Then Elizabeth married Joseph Plymire, Sally married Mathias Leonhart, Lydia married Jonathan Swickard. Then one married Adam Plymire. I think her name was Mary, not quite sure, I never saw her. I never saw any but Elizabeth, Lydia, Sally, and Isreal.

Will of Mary Dage.

(Mary, Andrew's Second Wife.)

In the name of the Benevolent Father of all. I, Mary Dage of the town of New Albany in Plain Township, Franklin County and the State of Ohio, do make and publish this my Last Will and Testament.—

Item 1st. It is my will that all of my just debts and funeral expenses shall be paid by my executor, here after named, to be paid out of the proceeds of my personal property, as soon after my decease, as shall by him be convenient.—

Item 2nd. It is my will that my executor purchase a set of tombstones worth about thirty dollars, to be by him selected and set to my grave.—

Item 3rd. I devise and bequeath to my nephew Andrew Nelson Smith and Charles Smith all the residue of my property both real and personal, to be shared by them equally, and be appropriated to their use and paid to them by my executor as herein after provided. If either one of said nephews should die before they arrive at age of twenty-one years leaving no heirs, then and in that case the surviving nephew is to share the whole of my estate.—

OF THE DAGUE FAMILY

Item 4th. I do hereby and nominate and appoint George Wagner executor of this my Last Will and Testament, hereby authorizing and empowering him to compromise and adjust, release and discharge in such manner as he may deem proper, the debts and claims due me. I do also empower him by private or public sale, or in such manner and upon such terms of credit or otherwise as he may think proper, to dispose of all my personal property and real estate. The said real estate consisting of lot No. 49 and west half of lot No. 51 in the town of New Albany as aforesaid and deed to purchasers to executors, acknowledge and deliver in fee simple.—

Item 5th. It is my will that my said executors after selling my real and personal property as aforesaid, and paying all my just debts and funeral expenses and purchasing said tombstones that he hold the balance of said money in his hands until my said nephews, Andrew Nelson Smith and Charles Smith become Twenty-one years of age, and my said executor apportionate such amount of said money to the education of said Andrew Nelson Smith and Charles Smith as he may think proper, and after my said nephews arrive at the age of twenty-one years of age, my executor shall pay over the balance of said money in his hands to said nephews before named, and if my said nephews, Andrew Nelson Smith and Charles Smith should both die before they arrive at the age of twenty-one years and leaving no heirs, in that case it is my will the residue of my property after paying my just debts and funeral expenses and paying for said tombstones as before named, be paid to the Superannuated Ministers of the Christian denomination in the state of Ohio, to be applied to their use as directed by their "Annual Conference."

Item 6th. I give and devise all my wearing apparel to the wife of the Reverend Aaron Grover.—

Item 7th. I do revoke all former wills by me made, Here, in list among, I have hereunto set my hand and seal, this the twenty-ninth day of January in the year A. D. 1861.

Article of Agreement between Frederick Dague and Wm. Minix

Feb. 2d, 1841—Article of Agreement, entered into by Frederick Dague of Marshall County, Va., of the one part, and William Minnix of said county and state of the other part, witnesseth that the said Frederick Dague does agree to take Caroline daughter of the said William Minnix and raise her until she is sixteen years of age, and further agree to exercise the duty of parent and guardian towards said child, and to give said Caroline Minnix a year's schooling, to furnish her with good substantial clothing. The parties doth further agree that should any dissatisfaction occur on the part of either they shall have the privilege of properly adjusting the same.

Frederick Dague doth further agree that in case of his death said Caroline Minnix is liberated from all claims of this article. Further agreement that this article includes Frederick Dague and his wife Ann Dague. (Second wife.)

Witness our hand and seals this second day of February eighteen hundred and forty one.

Article of Agreement between Frederick Dague and Daniel Dague

Article of agreement made and concluded on the 15th day of July 1838 between Frederick Dague of Marshall County and commonwealth of Virginia of the one part, and Daniel Dague of the commonwealth aforesaid of the other part, witnesseth that the above said Frederick doth rent or lease unto the above said Daniel the farm that Daniel now lives on lying north of Wheeling Creek with the appurtenances thereunto belonging with the exception of two rooms in the dwelling house upstairs, the one with the fireplace and one opposite it, for the term of six years for the consideration of one hundred dollars a year to be paid in advance on the first day of April commencing on the date above written.

And the said Daniel is to put up two hundred panels of post and rail fence and keep the plantations in reasonable repairs during the said term at his own cost, and the said Daniel is to have the privilege to take timber for the repairs off of any of the land belonging to the said Frederick, and the said Frederick to have as much fruit as he can make use of for family use with the privilege of taking it where he pleases and the said Daniel is to have the privilege to seed the last year, cut and thresh his grain in the barn, rent free, but if said Daniel should see proper to plant corn or sow oats the seventh year he shall pay one third of each, the corn delivered in the crib and the oats in the bushel by the first day of January. the first year's rent is to go to the proper use of the said Frederick, and after that the legal heirs of the said Frederick are to have, as it becomes due, that is to say fifty dollars each of them until they all receive the above mentioned 50 dollars. The last year the above said Daniel is to pay but 50 dollars the remainder to be his compensation equal to the rest of the heirs. The said Frederick Dague the privilege to pay heirs first that he may think most needy and of them that is indebted to him or that has received money of him, it is to be reduced out of the said 50 dollars. and if the said Frederick should not live the said term then the said Daniel shall pay to the legal heirs of said Frederick the within compensation or to rest of heirs as has not received this compensation, and if the said Daniel continues on the place the seventh year he is to cut the meadow and give the third of the hay in the stack if any to cut.

In testimony of which we hereunto set our hands and affix our seals this 15th day of July 1838.

Cure for the Botts

Begin by rubbing the horse behind the fore shoulder and saying, "There was a farmer, who had three acres, and in three acres he drew three furrows, and in the three furrows there were three worms. The first worm was a black worm, the second worm was a white worm, the third worm was a red worm. Now all these three worms are dead dead dead." As you pronounce the last words clap the horse hard on the chest.

(Daniel Daguc, the writer's grandfather thought the above directions was a sure cure for the botts.)

OF THE DAGUE FAMILY

Speech of Welcome to Returned Soldiers of the Civil War.

Fellow soldiers without cause, base traitors made war upon our government for more than four years. The rage of civil conflict has been going on from center to circumference; the whole country has been drenched with human gore, and watered with the best blood of the nation. But thank God this fratricidal war has ended, and You, Brave Men, have brought us peace.

In the hour of distress your country called for help; you obeyed her summons and did your duties nobly as patriots, as free men and as heroes. The victory has been won triumphantly at an immense cost of treasure and of blood. To you, under God, belong the praise, the credit, and the thanks of the nation. You have returned from the battle field covered with glory; the nation will garland your brows with the freshest laurels. We weep for the lamented dead; we pray for the suffering wounded, and rejoice at the return of our heroic victors. We welcome you to our "new" little state (West Virginia). You Brave Men, we extend a threefold hearty welcome to your families and homes.

The citizens of Sand Hill have long contemplated to give you a public reception. We have assembled for that purpose on this the 19th day of August in this beautiful grove. At the close of these remarks you are to march to the table where you will be honored with a sumptuous banquet. Accept the tender of our hospitality which you have so rightly, and so nobly merited. It is peculiarly appropriate that we should at one and the same time rejoice at the triumph of our nationality, of right over wrong, of law over recklessness, and of freedom over tyranny, and welcome to their homes our brave defenders.

We are a united people; let us be and remain a happy people, for as the Lord lives, the supremacy of our government must be maintained at home, and shall be respected abroad.

The above paper was written by Daniel Dague, grandfather of the writer, and delivered by him August, 1865. The Sand Hill soldiers who took part in the Civil War had returned home sometime during the summer of 1865 and a banquet was held in their honor a month later. Among the returned soldiers were Daniel Dague's three sons, Robert, Frederick, and William; and several nephews who lived at Sand Hill and vicinity. Daniel had seventeen nephews in the Civil War, but all were not at the banquet on that day. Some had passed to the "Great Beyond," and others lived in distant states.

The nephews were as follows:

Will Burns, shot through the knuckles of one hand; Robert Burns, a captain; Tunis Carrol who starved to death in Libby prison; Jonathan Minnix; John Taylor; James Luke; Fred Dague; Frederick A. Dague; Daniel Workman; William Knight who was lost and never found; John Carrol; Addison Dague; John Dague, a lieutenant, a commander of a gunboat fleet on the Ohio and Kanawha Rivers, and one of the body guards of Lincoln at Springfield, Illinois at the time of his death; three whose surnames were Lauch, Cunningham, Townsend, and one whose name is not known.

Daniel had a son-in-law, Jesse Gray, who took part in the Civil War along with his three sons, Robert, Frederick, and William Dague.

Later it was moved from the Ewing place to Turkey Run to Robert Taylor's place. Here it remained during the Civil War. After the War the post office was moved to Daniel Dague's home, with Robert, Daniel's son, as post master. After several years the post office was moved back to Turkey Run where it was known as the Turkey Run post office, later changed to Viola.

The paper below shows that John Dague had received one of these counterfeit notes and unknowingly passed it on to some one else. Levi Dague paid this counterfeit note for John.

Letters from Rachel Cunningham to her brother, Daniel.

Address gone
April 28, 1853

Brother Daniel,

I thought I would write to you again. I heard that you calculated to send my money in a letter. I thought I would let you know that I wanted you to do so. I want you to send it to me as soon as these lines come to hand. I can't see why you do not write to me when I request you to do so. I have written to you and it appears that you have to wait some monts, before you can give me an answer. I beg of you this time not to wait, but send in haste the money and I shall send you a receipt. The reason why I want the money is that the man we bought of is threatening to take the land from us.

There are a great many sick in our country. One of our neighbors lost a boy 14 years old. He was sick only three days. One of our little girls lay 21 days, no life scarcely. A change has taken place for the better. There is no one of our family well. The doctors say that with care that we will gat along.

Rachel Cunningham

(Rachel is Grandfather Daniel Dague's sister. She was living at the time of the letter somewhere in Ohio. She received her money, her share in the home place, for the receipt were found, along with those of the other heirs, among Daniel Dague's papers).

OF THE DAGUE FAMILY

Letter from Jonathon Minix to Daniel Dague

April 11, 1853

Dear Uncle,

I take this opportunity of writing a few lines to you. I want you to send my clothes down to Elizabeth Town the first opportunity you get. If you get no chance to send them before Burn's trial send them down with Mr. C. W. Burns and tell him to leave them at James Whittinghams and they will be handy. I can get there any time.

If you think I have earned the clothes I should be glad to have them. I would like to have them but if you think I didn't earn them you may keep them. My clothes are all I ask or want from you, and I will be satisfied with them, I would like to have my books sent along too. I wish you well; give my love to all.

Jonathon Minix.

(Jonathon is the son of Elizabeth, Grandfather Daniel Dague's sister. Jonathon was reared by Daniel. Caroline, Jonathon's sister, lived with Great Grandfather Frederick Dague after Elizabeth's death.)

Letter from Frederick Dague to his Brother, Daniel.

March 2, 1838.

Dear Brother, I again take up my pen in my hand to address you by way of letter, as it is the only way it appears that we can address each other, as to my part it is very satisfactory to me that we can address each other in writing; it was also a satisfaction to me when I received your letter and heard that you were well. I am still enjoying very good health, and have had no sickness yet since I have been here.

I received the letter that sister Christean wrote to me, and I found a very fine present in it. Tell Christean that I am very much obliged to her until she is better paid. I will inform you that I am very busy engaged in improving my land. I have made six thousand white oak rails and have about the half of them hauled out and am still hauling. The six thousand rails will fence 70 acres six rails high. My employment this summer will be breaking prairie. I have my team (?) up now. I intend to break 50 or 60 acres for myself this season. I have a young man to help me improve. He is going to stay with me for several years and crop with me if life and health will permit. I have built me a frame house 18 by 24 and I am living in it.

(Note—here a part of the letter is missing.)

I will inform you that I received a letter from brother John the same day I received one from you. His was dated Feb 3d and yours was dated the 4th of the same month, and I received them on the last day. He stated in his letter that they were well and that he did not like the country he lived in, and that if could sell to a good advantage he would sell and come to the state of Illinois.

I will also inform you that there is a great revival of religion taking place in this country, the greatest that I have ever seen. It has taken place among the Old Presbyterians and Methodists. There have a great many joined each church. There are many others inquiring what they must do to be saved and seeking earnestly for the salvation of their souls. At a Sacramental meeting this winter in McComb, I myself found the Pearl of Great Price, and attached my name to the Old Presbyterian church. There were fifteen of us joined at the same time. It appears that the Lord is still carrying on his work in this Western land.

Dear brother I want you to tell William Carrol and William Minnix and all those of our relations that have not as yet come to knowledge of the truth as it is found in Jesus that I want them to seek earnestly for the salvation of their souls.

I shall have to cut my words short. Money is tolerable scarce here and wages are high. Working hands are asking from fifteen to twenty dollars a month. Tell Margaret and Mother to come to see me also Andrew in the near future. Maybe by that time I shall have a wife.

(Of the last part only a few words could be read.)

Your brother Frederick.

Letter from Savena Carroll to Daniel Dague.

Sept. 8, 1857

Dear Brother,

I inform you that we are all well at present. Andrew returned home Monday evening. I saw a neighbor this morning of John Townsend and he told me that Margaret wished to see you very much. She is not able to raise her head. I told him I would go out as soon as possible and stay as long as I could. He said she could not last long, and I think she wishes to see you to settle some affairs before she leaves this world. She wishes me to come also and I am going to start Monday morning on the train if nothing prevents.

Andrew seems to be well satisfied with his country visit.

Sevena Carroll

Daniel Dague.

(Andrew was Daniel's and Sevena's brother. He was learning the blacksmith trade at the time of the letter. He was apprenticed to a blacksmith at Fulton. He had visited his sister Sevena in the country. Later he set up a shop on the old home place. Margaret was a sister of the three mentioned above, who had married John Townsend. All four were children of Frederick H. Dague.)

Letter from Robert Addison Dague to William Dague.

1045 Regent Street,
Alameda, California,
June 14, 1903.

Dear Cousin,

Your letter of January 6 at hand. I am quite sure you and I are cousins. My father's name was John, his father's name was Frederick, and I know one of my father's brothers was Daniel, and my father came right from your vicinity. He was killed by a tree in Ohio near Ashby February 6, 1851. My two sisters' names were Margaret and Caroline. Margaret, when a girl, taught school in your country or went to school I am not sure which about 1848 or 1849. She made her home, I think, with Uncle Daniel Dague. She came home and died in 1850. When a boy I remember that a dog belonging to Uncle Daniel bit her three or four other children when Uncle shot him. My next sister, Caroline, is the mother of Adessa Benedict.

My brohters were Frederick, William, John, Isaac, and James. William left Ohio and came to California in about 1858 and we lost track of him. Frederick died in 1861. John aged 67 lives in Oceola, Iowa. (Now dead) Isaac lives in Los Angeles, California. I live in Alemeda, California, and James died in 1862. (All dead now.) My mother also died in 1862. Edith Dague, whom you inquired about, was the daughter of my brother Frederick. She married in Michigan and died five or six years later leaving one child. I am the youngest of the Dague family, and I will be 62 March 27 next. John and Iszac, as before stated, are both living.

I think I stated in my last letter that I had been married twice. I married, my first wife, a daughter of Reverend Frank H. Read, at Occola and lived with her 29 years when she passed away at Santa Paula, California. I married again about seven yers ago. I have but one child, Roswell, age 18 years. Two years ago he was in Europe where he traveled and studied for about ten months. He was with my step daughter Madam Myron, a noted singer.

I remember now that my father-in-law, Rev. F. H. Read, Methodist many years ago preached when quite a young man in Marshall County Virginia, and I remember too that he said he knew my grandfather Frederick Dague. He called him Brother Frederick Tague.

Father Read passed away in 1870. The children of my present wife are grown up and married. I think I wrote you in my former letter that I practiced law a few years when young, but have edited and published newspapers for thirty years up to about two years ago. I now live on rents and interest. I was glad to hear from you. Wife and I talk a little about taking one more trip East. Her children live in Colorado and Ohio, but her birth place was Allegheny City, Pa., and she lived many years in Alliance, Ohio. If we do go, she will go East as far as Allegheny, but I think I may not go farther east than Chicago, though I may visit my old brother-in-law, Aaron Benedict near Ashley, Delaware County, Ohio near where I was born.

I think I wrote you that Alameda is on an island five miles from San Francisco. We have 20 000 in Alameda, 400 000 in San Francisco, 75 000 in Oakland, and 15 000 in Berkley all close together.

Hoping I may get a letter from you some time again, I remain
Your Cousin,
Robert Addison Dague.

(James died in early manhood instead of a little child as stated in a previous letter.)

Letter from Robert Dague to Carrie M. Dague.

1375 Acoma St.,
Denver, Colorado,
March 17, 1908

Miss Carrie M. Dague,
Dear Cousin,

Your favor of the 9th instant, sent to me at my former home, Alameda, California, has been forwarded to me here. We resided ten years at Los Angelus and Santa Paula, California. Then we moved to Alameda and was there when the earth quake came. Four weeks later, we went to Tacoma, Washington, which city is now our home. Last October I lost the hearing in one ear. My wife has a married daughter living at Boneder 30 miles north west of this city. We wanted to visit her there before we came here over three months ago. We are visiting and I am being doctored by an ear specialist. I am 67 years old and begin to feel the effects of age.

Yes, we saw San Francisco burn. No matter how thrilling your pastor represents that awful calamity, he cannot over-state its horrors. Our Alameda property was damaged some, but we were not hurt.

I am not well informed as to the various branches of the Dague family. However, your Great-Grandfather Frederick was my grandfather. My father's name was John. Your Grandfather Daniel and my father were brothers. My father was accidentally killed by a tree in 1850 in Morrow County, Ohio. I was then nine years of age. Of my brothers and sisters but two are living; John Bemont of Oceola, Iowa aged 73 and Isaasac of Ontario, California, Rural Route, Box 50, aged about 70.

I have but one child, Roswell, aged 23. His mother died in Santa Paula, Cal. I was married again 13 years ago. Roswell when 16 spent a year in Europe. When 18 he won the State Championship as an orator and debater at Stanford University-State Championship of the High Schools of California. For a year when 21 he played a part in the great play, "The Prince of India" in Broadway Theatre, New York; he also visited and played in ten or twelve of the largest Eastern cities. He did not have much liking for the stage, so he came home to Tacoma and took a course in the business college graduating the 27th of last month. Two days ago he took a steamer at Tacoma bound by ocean route to San Francisco. Later he intends to come to Denver. He is a natural orator, and has fine literary ability, but so far has not manifested much business ability.

My brother J. B. is now in the U. S. hospital at Hot Springs, Arkansas, being treated for rheumatism. He has two married daughters. I. Q. Dague has one married daughter. I practiced law five years in Iowa, was elected state senator when I was 30. I then bought a newspaper. For 30 years I edited and published newspapers at Osceola, Iowa; Phillipsburg, Kansas; and Santa Paula, California. Since 1900 I have not been in active business except by "spurts". We live on rents of property in California and Tacoma, Washington. I have written and copyrighted four books and pamphlets. I sold two of the copyrights. The book, "Henry Ashton" is in its second edition. It is being published in three languages. It is owned by The Social Democratic Herald Company of 344-6 S. Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

My wife's daughter, Allie, a married woman has a tumor. She will be operated on for it about April in Chicago. My wife will soon start for Chicago and remain with her daughter until she recovers. I shall stay in Denver for perhaps two months or until my wife returns from Chicago. Then we shall return to our home at Tacoma.

I fear you may have trouble to make out my writing. When at home I use a typewriter. My parents died when I was young. I never knew much about the Dagues outside our family. I attended the State University at Ann Arbor, Michigan. I served as a soldier in the 88th Ohio for a short time. I left Ohio when I was 23 located in Osceola, married Jennie Read, a daughter of the Reverend Frank Read once a Methodist preacher who lived in your part of the state of West Virginia. . . . My brother J. B. is a Lawyer. He was a captain in the Union Army. My brother, Isaac, is a fairly prosperous orange and lemon grower near Ontario, California. They are both men of ability, and men of the highest dense of integrity and honor. Once I was a candidate for Congress and once for Supreme judge in California. I made a fine run, but the Republicans defeated me because I live in a district overwhelmingly Republican.

I am a Socialist. For over twenty years I edited a Republican paper. The Republican party is rich, is made up of greedy men. Once it was a great and good party; now it is the party of the trusts and grafters. My sympathies go out to the poor, the homeless, the friendless, and the discouraged. The Socialist movement is world wide. It is the greatest and best movement of modern times. It is not so much a political as an industrial movement.

I was glad to hear from you. I hope you may have a long and useful life. I am most sincerely yours,

Robert Addison Dague.

THE HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

Excerpts from two Letters from John Belmont Dague

Written in November, 1926

Dear Carrie M. Dague

Elm Grove, W. Va.

I just received your very welcome letter of November 2 giving an account of the Dague family. I am now in my 91st year. My father, John Dague was born March 11, 1797 and his father's name was Frederick who lived on a farm in Ohio County, W. Va. 16 miles east of Wheeling.

My mother was born August 28, 1805 and died October 17, 1862. Her maiden name was Jane Rodgers. With her sister, born at Darlington, England, she married and settled near Zanesville, Ohio.

During the late World War the Germans sunk a French gunboat in the Mediterranean Sea the "Dague" a war vessel spelled exactly as we spell our name. I expected to ask our minister why it was so named.

I graduated from the University of Michigan in 1861, entered the recruiting service in 1862, was elected orderly sargeant of Company 'G' 88th Ohio Infantry, then promoted to second Lieutenant in Company 'C'. Then I was recommended by the Governor of Ohio as commander of the Gunboat fleet on the Ohio and Kanawha rivers, where I stayed until the close of the war. I had the gunboat, Alice, at Charleston when General Lee surrendered the Confederate Army to General Grant, on the 6th of April 1865. I got orders from Washington to take the gunboat to Cincinnati and turn it over to be dismantled. I was appointed by the Governor of Ohio one of the eight officers as a body guard for Lincoln while 69 000 passed in review, while he lay in state, before his burial at Springfield.

Ethel's boy Elbert goes to Kemper Military school, and Fanny Slaymaker's boy, Donovan Dague Slaymaker is now in the Iowa University at Iowa City. (Grandchildren.)

I still have all my hair, and even have my hearing as good as ever. I do all my reading and writing without glasses, and am never sick. My wife Rosa Redfield Dague died August 21st 1912 and is buried here on Maple Hill where I expect I will soon be laid by her side and on the same lot lie my brother Robert Addison and his only daughter.

Your affectionate cousin,

John Belmont Dague.

OF THE DAGUE FAMILY

Letter from G. C. Dague

Doylestown, Ohio

September 19, 1926

Miss Carrie M. Dague,

Elm Grove, W. Va.

I was quite surprised to receive a letter from you although much pleased. I will give you all the information that I possibly can. I could do much better if I could see you and talk with you face to face. It has been so long ago that my grandfather told me about these things that I have forgotten the most of it, and at that time I was not much interested in our ancestry. However I shall give it the best that I can.

My Grandfather's name was Gabriel; he was a brother of Frederick and Michael, one of three brothers that came from Pennsylvania to Ohio in the spring of 1820, and settled in Milton Township, Wayne County, Ohio. If I mind right, they came from Mercer County, Pa. I will not say about that however. Grandfather Gabriel Dague told me that his grandfather had to fight the Indians from his land in Pa. (This grandfather of Gabriel would have to be Frederick who was born 1736 and died 1796.)

I knew all the brothers who came to Ohio from Pa. and have been at their homes. Gabriel was my grandfather and I went with him and my father to his brother Frederick's to a Dunkard church quite often before I went into the army in the fall of 1862. Frederick died while I was in the army and Gabriel and Michael soon after I returned.

I want to correct a mistake that Mr. Stiner made at the Reunion in his statement about the Dague history. Mr. Stiner said that Cyrus of Gabriel Dague's family had gone into the army and was lost. That statement was not true. Cyrus died at Vicksburg after the fight there in August. (Cyrus brother) I was with him all the time until he died. It was me that was lost. I was taken prisoner the next spring after Cyrus died, at Snaggy Point on the Red River below Alexandria, Louisiana. We were going up the river to reinforce our men that were surrounded at Alexandria. We were attacked and I was captured. I was reported to have been shot, and so have fallen in the river. No one knew any different for about nine months when I got a letter to my folks by a boy that was exchanged. I was there thirteen months.

I was very much interested in the history that you read and would have liked to have talked with you, but hope we may meet again and learn more of each other. If there is any question on which I can help you I shall be glad to do so. We are most likely connected in relationship, as there was only one who came over from Germany as far back as I have ever heard in the Dague ancestry.

Yours with best wishes,

G. C. Dague, Doylestown, Ohio.

History and Genealogy of Catherine Dages or Daggs who is probably a daughter of Frederick, born 1736 and died 1796.

THE HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

Catherine Dague's Descendants

The writer, early in the spring of 1938 received a family record from Mrs. Theo GyllensKog of Springfield, Utah of her ancestor, Catherine Ann Dages or Daggs who, Mrs. GyllensKog thinks, was a daughter of Frederick Dagg or Deg, born 1736; died 1796. Mrs. GyllensKog has always thought that Catherine was connected with the Dagues, but was not sure that such was the case until recently. In looking over some of the old records she sometimes found Catherine's name written Catherine Ann Dague.

Elmer Dague of Scenery Hill, Pennsylvania says that he looked up the early Catherine's in the Dague family, and found that Frederick's daughter, Catherine, was the only one of the Catherine's who could have been married in 1800, the year in which Mrs. GyllensKog's ancestor, Catherine Ann, was married to Samuel Ruffner of Virginia, now West Virginia. Samuel's father was Joseph Ruffner who came to Kanawha County, Virginia, now West Virginia. Joseph's father was Peter Ruffner who came to America in 1732.

Elmer Dague said further that some of Frederick's family went to Virginia about the year 1798. Mrs. Grace Dague Shields's report may throw some light on why members of Frederick's family went to Virginia. According to this report Frederick had two brothers who lived for a time in Virginia. Members of these families visited each other, and no doubt Catherine was one of these who met the Ruffner family and married Samuel.

Over half a century ago a family of Daggs who lived on Big Wheeling Creek often spoke of the Dagues there as relatives of their family. No one today knows from what part of the country this family came. After several years it moved away from the Big Wheeling Creek vicinity. John, Jim, and Jennie went to Sistersville and later Jennie married, but John and Jim never married. Dr. Hiram Daggs married Dode Kimmons and Will married a Miss Hunter; both remained in the Wheeling vicinity. Perhaps this family was related to one of Frederick's brothers spoken of above.

The writer feels that Mrs. GyllensKog's ancestor, Catherine Ann Ruffner is one of the "The Dague Clan." As such her descendants sent by Mrs. GyllensKog are included in the Dague Genealogy.

e—Dell Creek, b. about 1885, Park City.

10—David William Graham, b. about 1859. 7 children but names not sent.

(NOTE—The genealogy of Catherine Dague's descendants was received too late to be included in the alphabetical index.)

Frederick's Other Children

VIII—Christina Dague.

IX—Margaret Dague.

X—Lucy Dague.

XI—The daughter who married a Swinehart.

No records of the descendants of the above persons have been located. Their records stand as found in the beginning of this genealogy, among Frederick's children.

THE HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

Explanations of the Alphabetical Index

- 1—Husbands and wives are placed on the same page.
- 2—"Mc' in the Index equals "Mac".
- 3—The Ancestral number is made up of letters and figures which are symbols, each one of which represents an ancestor.
- 4—Frederick's children are numbered in Roman Numerals as seen on Page 104 as I-II-III-IV, etc.
- 5—Each person marked with Roman Numerals has his or her children marked with capital letters as, eldest, A; second, B; third, C; fourth, D; and so on.

These are grand children of Frederick, born 1736.

- 6—All those persons marked with capital letters have their children marked with Roman Letters in parenthesis as, (I)-(II)-(III) and so on as needed.

These are great-grand children of Frederick.

- 7—All those persons marked with Roman letters in parenthesis, have their children marked in Arabic numbers as, 1-2-3-4, etc.

These are great-great-grand children of Frederick.

- 8—All those persons marked by Arabic numbers have their children marked by the small alphabet, as first child, a; second child, b; third child, c; and so on.

These are great-great-great-grand children of Frederick.

- 9—All those persons marked with the small alphabet have their children marked with the Arabic numbers in parenthesis, as, first child, (1); second child, (2); third child, (3); and so on.

These are great-great-great-great-grand children.

- 10—All those persons marked with Arabic numbers in parenthesis have their children marked with small letters in parenthesis, as, first child, (a); second child, (b); third child, (c).

These are great-great-great-great-great-grand children.

- 11—In looking for a person's name on a page in the genealogy, look for the last symbol in the index first and then continue back until the ancestors of the person in mind are found. Sometimes the last symbol only will be found on the page designated; if so follow the symbols back to preceding pages.

- 12—This method of marking is largely based upon the form followed for an outline in English composition.

	(Opal Dague)

The earliest known ancestor at present is Andreas Deegen (Deeg) (Deg) (Dague). Because there are so many Dagues by the name of Andreas, I have labeled them I, II, III and IV. According to family historians, Andreas I was a baker. He was born about 1659 in Bauschlott, Germany and died February 11, 1694. On November 25, 1677, he married Margaretha Kraussler, who was born on January 31, 1658 in Stein, Germany. She was the daughter of Hans Jacob Kraussler. They lived in Wurttemberg.

Andreas II was born June 29, 1680 in Wurttemberg, Germany, and died February 28, 1750. in Weiler, Durlach, Baden; Germany. He married Anna Maria Wenk on May 16, 1706. She was the daughter of Hans Wenk.

Andreas III was born January 29, 1713, in the town where they lived and Andreas II later died. On July 13, 1733, Andreas married Anna Maria Kudin who was born in Pfatzgrafenweiler, where they were married. Two of their children were the immigrants to this country.

Andreas IV was born about 1734 in Germany, and Johannes Friedrich was born about 1736 in the Rheim river Valley of Germany near the French Border.

These two sons were the first verified ancestors of our Dague family to arrive in the Colonies. Ship records indicate the brothers sailed from Rotterdam, last from Portsmouth, on the Eastern Branch, debarking in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania on October 3, 1753.

Frederick initially owned land in Lancaster, PA and married his first wife (Sophia Schmitt) at the Lutheran Church in Lancaster, PA. He married his second wife (Anna Geysler) there also. Leading one to believe that Sophia died between December 10, 1758 (possibly at child birth of Michael and 1761). Records for 1781 indicate that a Frederick Dague paid taxes in Washington County. The name of Frederick Tague appears as a PVT on a roll call of CPT George Myers (Washington County Militia) 2 November 1781 and on 17 May 1782 in the Revolutionary War. There were a variety of spellings of Dague in those days. Frederick was a farmer and is buried along with Anna in the Bethlehem Lutheran Church Cemetery just East of Washington, PA. Many Dague family members attended church there and are buried there. The church still maintains the old records.
